

The British
Psychological Society

Division of Occupational Psychology

Applying the science of psychology to work

OPEN LECTURE

Age in the workplace

supporting workers across the lifespan

Professor Donald Truxillo
Portland State University

+ Panel discussion

Chaired by Professor Binna Kandola OBE

Friday 8 January 2016

11:30–12:50

East Midlands Conference Centre
Nottingham

To register email dopconf@bps.org.uk with your name and phone number

The British Psychological Society's Division of Occupational Psychology (DOP) cordially invites you to this Open Lecture and Panel Discussion organised as part of its 2016 Annual Conference. Entrance is free but pre-booking is required as places are limited.

About the talk

Donald M. Truxillo will share insights from his extensive research related to applicant reactions, age differences at work, and occupational health and safety. He is a sought-after speaker, widely recognised for his work in this field and has published over 70 peer-reviewed journal articles and book chapters.

About the panel

Professor Truxillo's talk will be followed by a panel discussion on Age in the Workplace. The panel will take questions from the audience and be chaired by diversity, assessment and development specialist, Professor Binna Kandola. Alongside Professor Truxillo, the panellists will include leading thinkers from industry, charities and age-related government initiatives.

Why should you be there?

Attendees will have the opportunity to hear from and ask questions of some of the world's leading experts in the field. This event is particularly relevant to:

- members of age-related charities and campaigning organisations looking for evidence to support their work;
- HR and OD professionals seeking to apply the tools and techniques of occupational psychology within their own organisations;
- students and teachers of psychology, sociology and related disciplines wanting to keep up-to-date with the latest research and theories; and
- anyone else interested in learning about the challenges and opportunities for supporting workers across the lifespan.

Interested in attending the full conference as a delegate?
Please visit the conference website at www.bps.org.uk/dop2016